

The photovoltaic panel signed a contract

Overview

What they usually mean is a lease/PPA arrangement – you pay nothing upfront, but you sign a contract to buy power or rent the system for decades. It's not a charitable government program giving you free panels; it's a private contract. Contracts often last 20 years or more. You don't buy the system or own anything installed on your property. During the term of the contract, you're entitled to use all the power the system produces. You'll probably buy less power from your electricity. A Solar Power Purchase Agreement (SPPA) is a financial arrangement in which a third-party developer owns, operates, and maintains the photovoltaic (PV) system, and a host customer agrees to site the system on its property and purchases the system's electric output from the solar services provider. The goal is to give you practical, jargon-free guidance so you understand your rights and avoid surprises. Let's get started!. Yet, a home solar contract has terms and details you should understand before signing a major, long-term investment. Residential solar project in Anchorage, Alaska.
